

Linear Time

We think of time in Samsara as a series of moments in a trajectory like this....

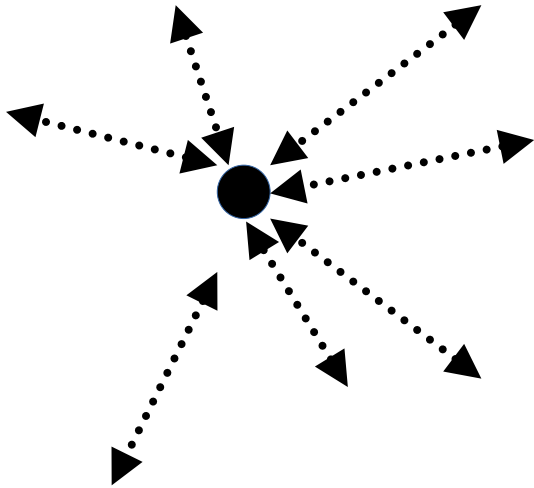

Timeline from past to future

And we consider all others to experience this same Linear Time

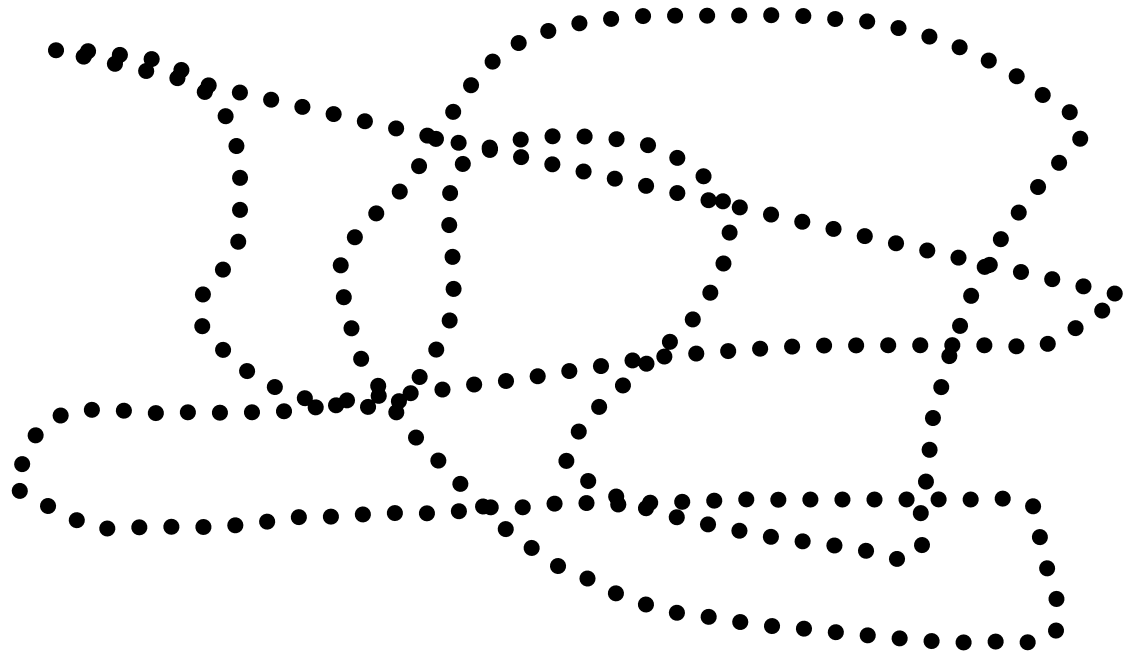

But if we analyze a single moment through the lens of Buddhism and substitute direction with potential...

Moment-to-moment

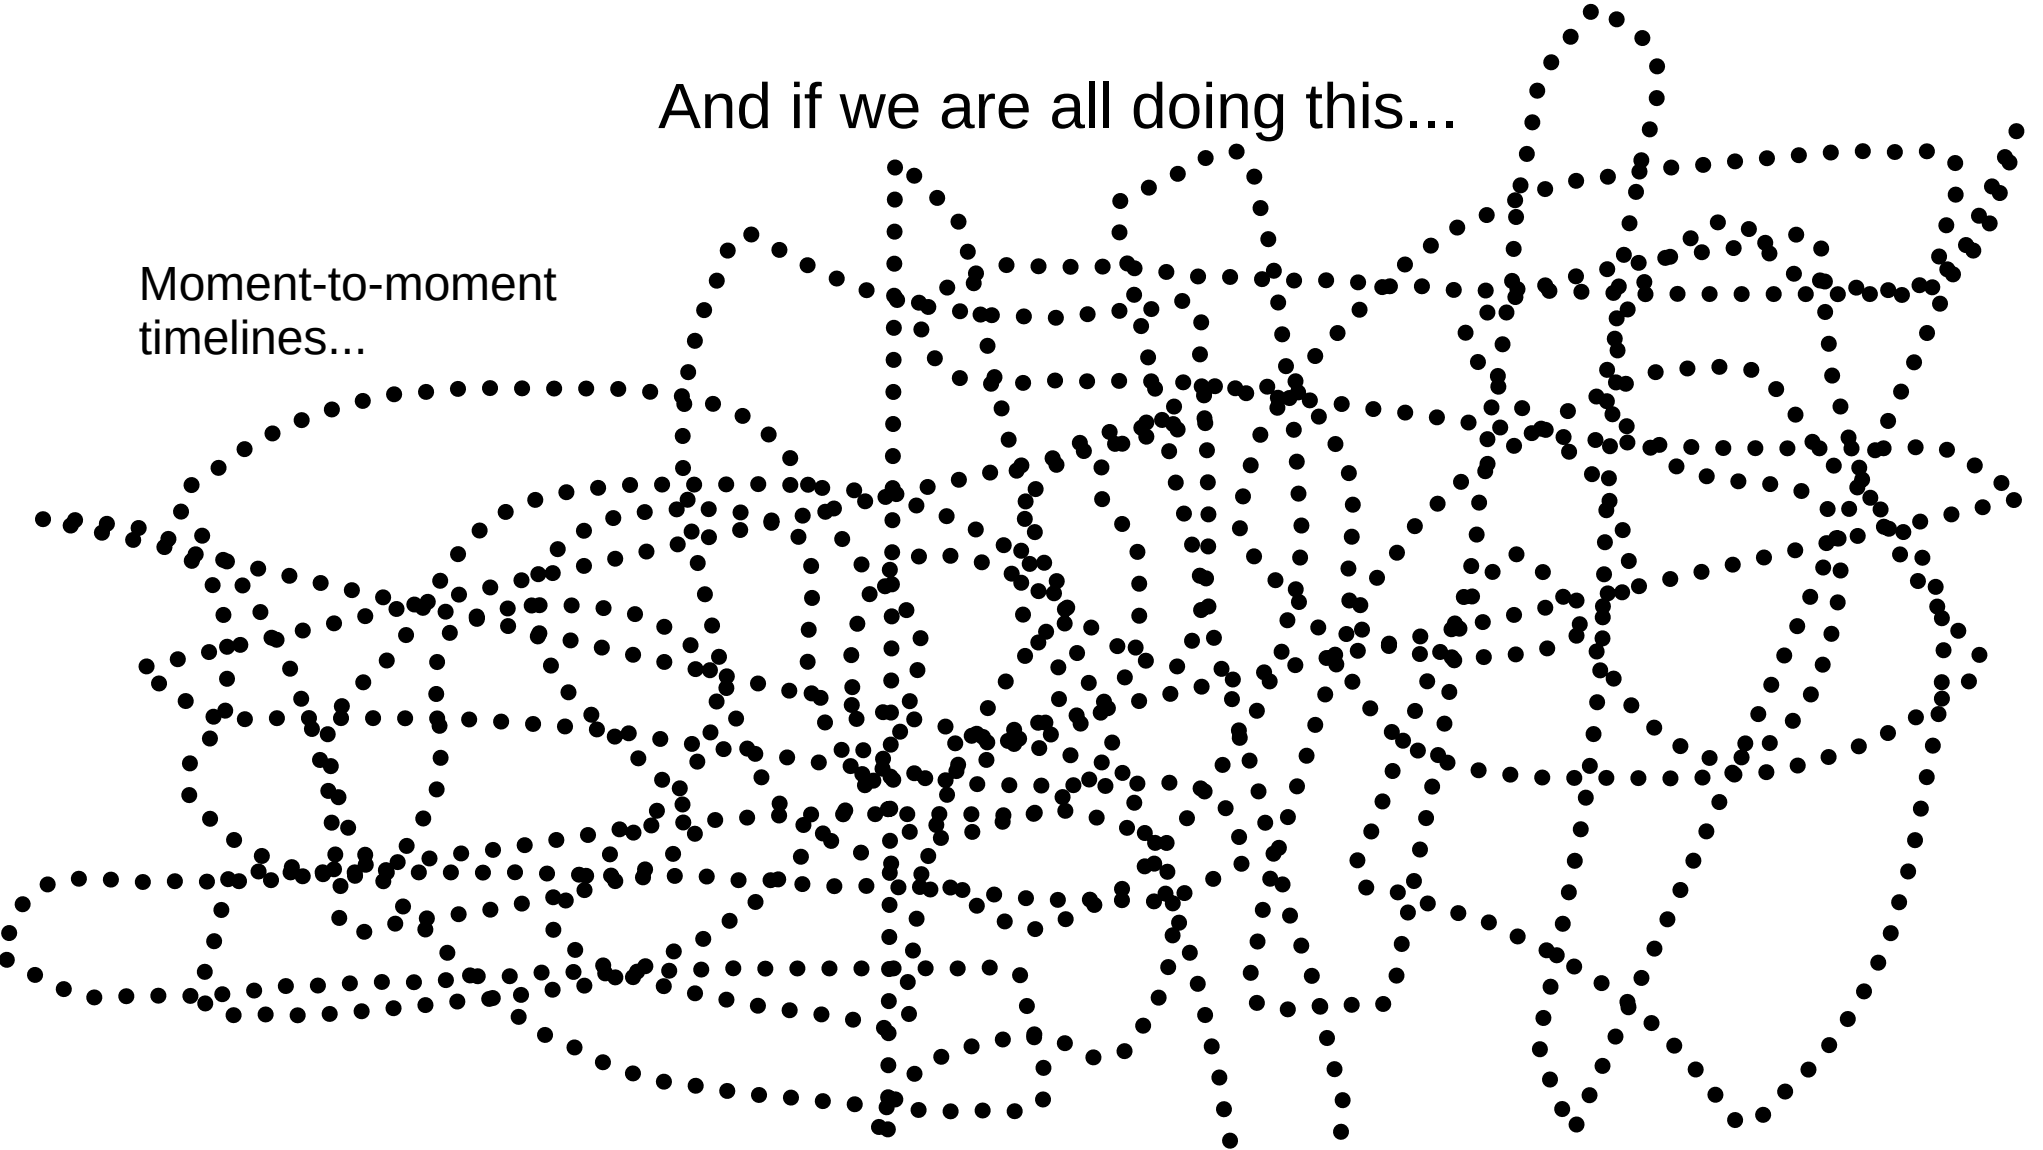

Our timelines begin to look more like this

And if we are all doing this...

Moment-to-moment
timelines...

Timelines, like a “cloud” of moments

- Have you ever asked how it is you find yourself in repeated circumstances in your life?
- Time is just a tool of measurement
- Time is the interstitial opportunity for influence
- Time provides our experience of the Engine of Life
- Buddhahood provides us the means to witness and apply agency to moments